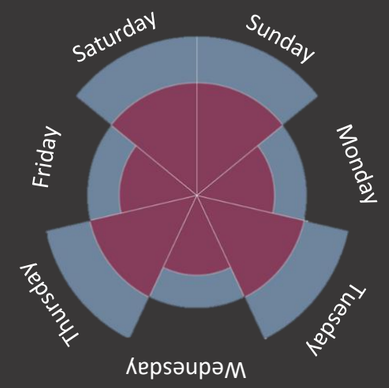
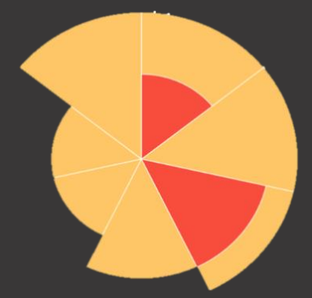
How a Mother and Daughter Spend their Time

Boomers V.S. Millennials

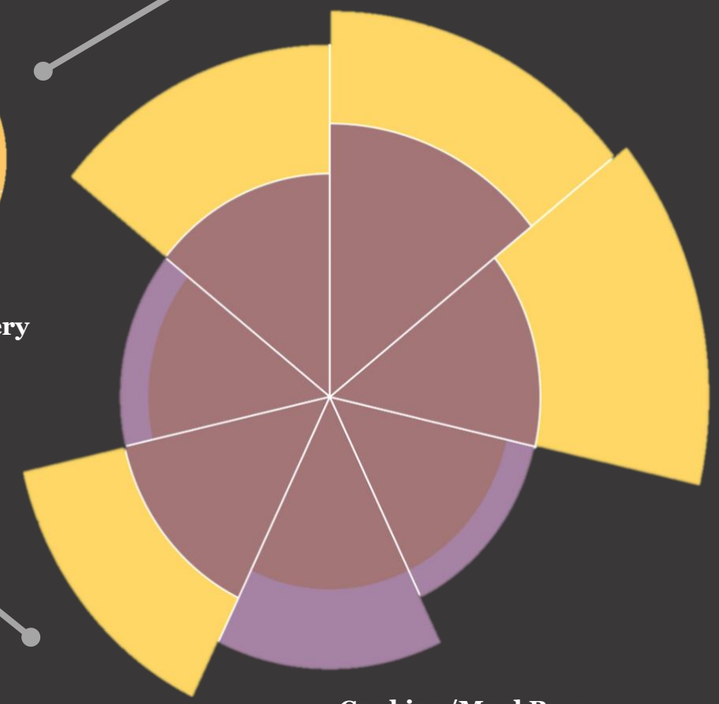
These two generations just can't seem to understand each other but they may have more in common than they think. Afterall, they're related.
A look into a week of activities between one North Carolina based mother and her bustling New York City daughter might finally help boomers and millennials bury the hatchet and bust a few myths between one another.





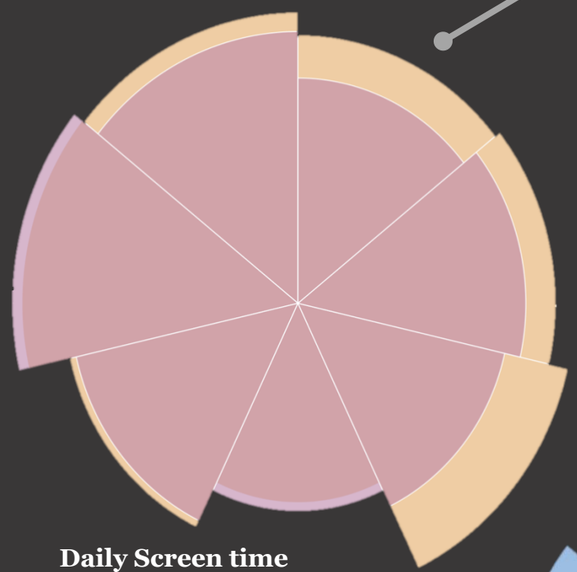
Eating out/Delivery

Cooking, Eating

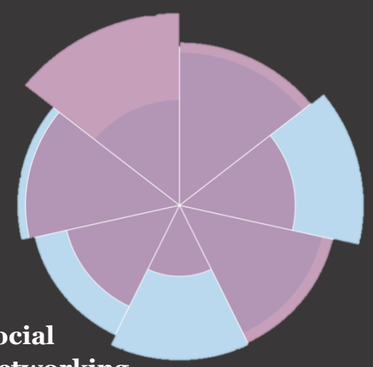


Cooking/Meal Prep

Screen Activity

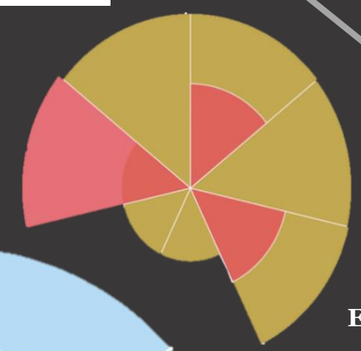


Daily Screen time



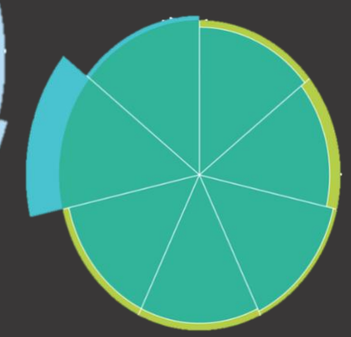
Social Networking

Physical Activity



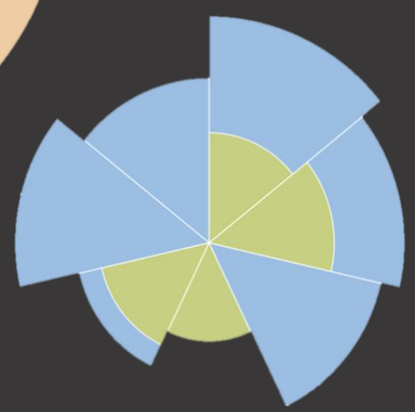
Exercise

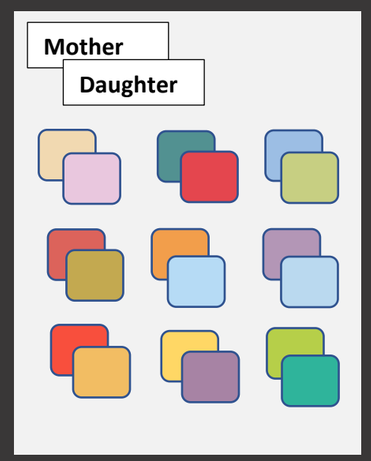
Daily Steps



Commuting

Entertainment





Reading & Referencing